1864	21 March	Great Missenden, BKM	in magistrates court	CHARGE OF RAPE AT PRESTWOOD. Riley Beldam was charged with this offence. Fanny Jennings, of Prestwood, 19 years of age, deposed that on the 14th instant, whilst returning home from her aunt's at Piggott's Common, and within a mile and a half from her father's house, she was followed by the prisoner, who, after some conversation, laid violent hands upon her, stifled her mouth, and completed the offence. She ran to Mrs. Essex's and told her and Mrs. Phillips what had occurred, and a policeman was at once sent to find the prisoner. Medical evidence was adduced by Mr. Smeathman, of a conclusive nature ; and Inspector Walker stated that the clothing of the prisoner bore marks which criminated him as the culprit. Police-constable Proctor produced a handkerchief which the prisoner had offered to the prosecutrix, and which she now identified, and Henry Harris spoke to having seen Beldam near the place early on the morning after the occurrence. Prisoner now said, "All I can say is, I an innocent of it;" and he called his mother and two sisters, who stated that on the 14th he was at his camp all day, with the exception of only ten minutes, when he went to tie up the horses. He was committed for trial.	The Bucks Herald , 26 March 1864, 6

1899	12 March	Willesden, MDX	charged with obstructing the police in pursuit of their duty in magistrates court		The Illustrated Police News , 18 March 1899, 11
1899	12 March	Harlesden, MDX		AN interesting sequel to the part recently played by the Willesden police as cowboys was heard at Harlesden Police Court. Five gipsies, Riley Beldam, fifty ; Thomas Beldam, twenty-one ; Arthur Fletcher, twenty-two ; Sidney Hughes, twenty-two ; and Henry Davis, twenty-six, were charged with resisting Police-sergeant, 46 X, in the execution of his duty. Mr. Pierron, solicitor, defended. Several gipsies who have been a source of annoyance to the authorities of Willesden cannot be induced to leave a large encampment at Kensal Rise, near the Sports Ground. The evidence showed that they had a number of horses which they turned into anyone's fields to graze. On Saturday evening the owner of one field turned fourteen of their horses out on the highway, where some policemen, who had been prepared for what would happen, secured them with lassoes and halters, and took them to some stabling at the rear of a public-house in Harrow Road, which was used as a pound. During the night an entry was forced and the horses removed. At the gipsy encampment fourteen of the horses in the camp were identified. Beldom immediately said something in the Romany language, and the prisoners jumped up, flew onto the backs of horses, formed a circle, narrowing it until they had possession of the fourteen horses. Beldom obstructed the police all he could, and the other four attempted to ride over them. An exciting scene ensued, during which Mr. Pinkham, a member of the bench, arrived. Mr. Bird fined the prisoners 40s and costs each; or twenty-one days.	The Illustrated Police News , 18 March 1899, 11

1899	12 March	Willesden, MDX	charged with obstructing the police in pursuit of their duty	AN interesting sequel to the part recently played by the Willesden police as cowboys was heard at Harlesden Police Court. Five gypsies, Riley Beldam, fifty ; Thomas Beldam, twenty-one ; Arthur Fletcher, twenty-two ; Sidney Hughes, twenty-two ; and Henry Davis, twenty-six, were charged with resisting Police-sergeant, 46 X, in the execution of his duty. Mr. Pierron, solicitor, defended. Several gypsies who have been a source of annoyance to the authorities of Willesden cannot be induced to leave a large encampment at Kensal Rise, near the Sports Ground. The evidence showed that they had a number of horses which they turned into anyone's fields to graze. On Saturday evening the owner of one field turned fourteen of their horses out on the highway, where some policemen, who had been prepared for what would happen, secured them with lassoes and halters, and took them to some stabling at the rear of a public-house in Harrow Road, which was used as a pound. During the night an entry was forced and the horses removed. At the gipsy encampment fourteen of the horses in the camp were identified. Beldom immediately said something in the Romany language, and the prisoners jumped up, flew onto the backs of horses, formed a circle, narrowing it until they had possession of the fourteen horses. Beldom obstructed the police all he could, and the other four attempted to ride over them. An exciting scene ensued, during which Mr. Pinkham, a member of the bench, arrived. Mr. Bird fined the prisoners 40s and costs each; or twenty-one days.		The Illustrated Police News , 18 March 1899, 11
