1853	early March	Leicester, LEI		It will be seen by our report of the proceedings on Tuesday that the Guardians resolved to set apart a ward for the reception of the afflicted, and, it is to be hoped, this timely and judicious step may prevent the fearful disease spreading much further. From enquiries we have since made, we learn the following particulars of the families attacked in Keen's yard. They are all related to each other, and form a total of twenty-eight persons, namely, three men, eight women, and seventeen children. To begin with Ann Bennett ; she and her two children, who have been deserted by the head of the family, are all attacked. Margaret Bennett and her child (also deserted) are ill - the woman very ill. Thomas Hopkin, his wife, and six children come next, and of them, the man is very sick, and three of the children were attacked on Tuesday, Ann Holland (a widow) and one of her three children were attacked. All the above are receiving parochial relief. Then there were found Tobias Clayton, his wife and three children, two grown-up daughters, and a son, and Reuben Bennett, and his wife, who were not laid up when the report was made ; but it was feared they would suffer. After the Guardians had decided upon the course to be taken in the above cases, the Chronicle reporter called the attention to the Board to a serious fever that had broken out in St. George's-row, St. George's-street, and, upon enquiry being made, it appeared that it was the family of Bryson, the engineer at the Union house. It was stated that both his children died within a few hours after being attacked ; it is said they were seized about eleven o'clock on Sunday ! The cases are reported to be "Scarlet Fever," and the cause is attributed to a privy at the end of the row. This place is used by the occupants of no less than seven houses, each containing families, and is situate near the boundary wall of St. George's churchyard, and in front of the row of houses. In addition to that situation being improper in a sanitary point of view, it is also very objectionably placed with regard to decency ; and we trust that the Officer of Health will at once direct his attention to the locality, if he has not done so before this appears in print. Not a hundred yards from the spot where the above houses are situated are two slaughter-houses in Church-street, from which the most offensive odours proceed, and great injury will doubtless accrue, if they remain in their present state when the summer time sets in. It is not at all improbable that these slaughter-houses, as well as the privy referred to, may have had something to do with the breaking out of fever in such a virulent form. We ought to state that the guardians, upon hearing the statement made by our reporter, at once agreed that the case required immediate attention. The Master stated that Bryson himself was very ill, and he feared he would be laid up. The Guardians agreed to recommend Bryson the remain in the Union house altogether for a few days, bringing his wife with him, and shutting the house in St. George's-row. The Master was ordered to see the surgeon upon the subject, and if thought advisable by him, to set apart a room for the use of Bryson and his wife. To show what sort of sanitary reformers the people would be, if left to themselves, we may mention that when the funeral of the two children took place, on Wednesday afternoon, a large quantity of children, many of them in the arms of their parents, collected round the house, and remained there until the corpses had been removed into the hearse. - Since writing the above we learn that the gipsies in Keene's-yard positively refuse to be removed to the Union-house, although a comfortable room has been provided for them. Unfortunately no power exists to remove them against their will, and thus they may, in consequence of their own stubbornness, remain where they are, probably spreading the infection, and assuredly lessening the chances of their own recovery...				The Leicester Chronicle , 12 March 1853, 3

1845	12 June	Loughborough, LEI	in magistrates court	Ann Holland, Margaret Bennett, Eunice Hodgkins, Emma Dinah Clayton, and Louisa Clayton, gipsies, were charged, on the information of Mr. Skevington, farmer, with unlawfully encamping by the side of a highway in Rothley plain. - The two last were discharged, and the others find 6d. each and costs, (about 10s. each), and in default were committed to the House of Correction for twenty-one days. - By this committal, we understand that twelve children will have to be maintained in the Barrow-upon-Soar Union House, at the expense of the parish of Mountsorrel, and the costs of the process would fall on Mr. Skevington, who laid the information.	The Leicestershire Mercury , 14 June 1845, 3

1849	10 August	Wolverhampton, STS	in magistrates court	A FRACAS AMONG THE GIPSIES. - George Bennett, Jerusalem Lovel, Nehemiah Lovel, Molineux Lovel, and Honor Lovel, all of the swarthy skinned race, were charged with violently assaulting Sarah Bosworth, a young woman belonging to another tribe. It seemed that the complainant and defendants are members of different tribes, and that there is an old grievance between them. On Sunday afternoon the complainant's tribe were camped at Wednesfield Heath, when the defendants came over from Gornal, and a general mélée commenced, in the course of which the complainant got somewhat roughly handled. Police constable Cooper was sent for, but in the meantime the defendants had made off ; they were apprehended on the race course on Monday. Mr. Ward, who appeared for the defendants, stated that both parties were equally culpable, and that a summons had been taken out by his clients against some of the complainant's tribe, but he was not then prepared to enter into it. No witnesses were called for the defence, and the Magistrates fined the defendants each in the sum of 10s. and costs ; in default one month's imprisonment.	The Wolverhampton Chronicle and Staffordshire Advertiser , 17 August 1859, 6
