1859	29 August	Welwyn, HRT	charged with stealing a mare								The Hertfordshire Mercury , 6 July 1861, 4
1861	1 July	Welwyn, HRT	at the Sessions	Ambrose Draper, a gipsy, was charged with stealing a mare on the 29th of August, 1859, the property of Edward Pennefather, at Welwyn. Mr. Bushby prosecuted. The prisoner was undefended. William Ellsome examined : I was horsekeeper to Mr. Pennefather. On the 29th of August the horses were left in the field, and the halters put under the rick, and in the morning the mare and the halter were missing. The mare was lame and bandy legged. The mare was afterwards brought back, it was the same we missed.							The Hertfordshire Mercury , 6 July 1861, 4

				Edward Pennefather examined : I occupy Harmer-green Farm. I missed the mare on the 30th August. It was brought back about a fortnight after. It was worth 3/. John Hampton examined : I have never seen the prisoner above two or three times. I never kept count when I saw him. Prisoner wanted to sell me a mare, and asked me to buy it for 5/. I told him that would not do. He afterwards asked me 2/. for it. It was lame in the fore foot. James Turner examined : I saw prisoner at Hadham, in August, 1859. I had seen him before. I saw him with Hampton, and heard him ask him 5/. for his mare; Hampton offered him 2/. I saw the mare afterwards in the pound. The prisoner asked me afterwards whether I had seen the mare, which he said he had from a farm house in exchange for a donkey, having given 15s. in exchange. Aborn Davey examined : I live at Hadham. I recollect seeing a gipsy with a fiddle, but I did not see the mare then. He came afterwards and wanted me to buy the mare. I cannot swear that this is the man. I told him if I bought the mare I should want to kill it. I afterwards saw it in the pound. James Deadman, examined : I recollect finding the mare which was lame with the fore leg, and I put it in the pound. She had a halter on. William Green, pindar of the Hadham pound : The last witness handed the mare over to me and I put it in the pound. I gave the horse up to the policeman. I took the halter home and afterwards gave it up to the police. Thomas Hodge, late police-constable at Hadham : I saw the mare in the pound, and Green gave it up to me, and it was kept till Mr. Pennefather came for it. John Pennefather : I went over to Hadham and identified the mare in the close. I know the halter had a brass nail in one winkler, and two in the other, and there was a ring on the bit. Inspector Ryder : In September, 1859, I was with last witness at Great Hadham, when he identified the horse. I obtained a warrant against the prisoner, but he absconded. I received the halter from Green, which I now produce. Police-constable Bird deposed as to the apprehension of the prisoner. From his statement it appeared that a hard fight took place, but he was eventually captured. Prisoner declared his innocence. Verdict - Guilty. The CHAIRMAN said he had been in prison previous to this, and he was liable to seven years' penal servitude ; the sentence of the court, however, was that he be kept in penal servitude for four years.

1868	16 June	Waltham Abbey, ESS	in magistrates court	Ambrose Draper, of Loughton, was charged with stealing a mare and a fowl, the property of Sydney Smith, of Loughton.-Prosecutor said he caned chairs; in March last he possessed a mare and foal, which he turned out on the Forest at Chingford, and missed them on the 17th of the same month ; from information he received he went to Brentford and saw the prisoner, who said he had sold the mare and foal; upon prosecutor threatening to have him locked up, prisoner ran away, and prosecutor saw no more of him until he was apprehended; the mare was a bay and the foal was black; he (prosecutor) had her about three years; on making inquiries he found the mare at South Fleet, in Kent, in April; she had been disfigured by having her hair cut off the tail and legs. Prisoner said prosecutor stole it at Barnet Fair, and he had as much right to it as prosecutor.-James Emmons, landlord of the Barge, at Vange, near Southend, said he bought the mare and colt of prisoner for £4; prisoner told him he had come from Romford; and they were the last he had to sell; he sold them to Mr. Kirkman.-Charles William Kirkman, farmer, residing at Betsham-house, Kent, said he bought the mare of last witness for £6.-Committed for trial.-Prisoner was then charged with stealing a mare from - Jacob, but as the man who bought the mare could not attend on account of illness, the case was adjourned for a week; there will then be a third charge against the same prisoner of a similar character.	The Chelmsford Chronicle , 19 June 1868, 8

Defendants were ordered to pay 10s 6d each, or go to prison for 14 days. Some female members of the gipsy tribe paid the money for Johnsons [sic]. They said Draper had no horses or anything to encamp with : nevertheless a warrant was ordered to issue in his case.	The Hertfordshire Express , 16 July 1870, 3

1871	15 November	Dunstable, BDF	in magistrates court	Ambrose Draper, a gipsy, was charged that he stole two halfcrowns and three florins, together 11s. the property of George Snoxall, on the 15th Nov. George Snoxall sworn said: I am a butcher at Dunstable. I saw the prisoner at the White Hart, on the 15th inst., about half-past 5 o'clock. He asked me to lend him half-a-crown and I did so. John Battams, my brother Bill, and two or three others were present. The prisoner gave me my halfcrown back, saying "Here's your halfcrown and I don't want that." I pulled out two half-crown and three florins. Prisoner asked me to lend him a sovereign, but I told him I had not got it to spare. I said I would not lend it, but I laid the money down on the table to count it. Prisoner put it in his pocket. I lifted my hand up off the money, and he took it. He took it up as though I had given it him. I asked him to give it me back again about ten minutes afterwards. I did not try to stop him from taking it. The Mayor said this case ought never to have come into court. The information upon oath differed from the evidence taken to day. The Bench dismissed the case and directed the prosecutor to pay 3s. 6d. the expenses.	The Luton Times and Advertiser , 18 November 1871, 3
1871	20 November	Luton, BDF	in magistrates court	Ambrose Draper , (29), a gipsy, was charged with assaulting P.c. Toefield, when executing a warrant for his apprehension, at the Wheatsheaf, Luton, on the 13th., at 8 o'clock at night. Defendant said he did not remember whether he did or not. He was very tipsy. P.c. Taylor accompanied the last witness and assisted him in the execution of the warrant. Draper, when hearing the warrant read, said he would have his beer first. He was then violent and struck Toefield. Col. Ames said the court could not recognise drunkenness as a defence or as an excuse. Under the new act of parliament offences of this kind might be punished severely. He would read an extract for the benefit of the prisoner, and for others :- "Where any person is guilty of an assault on any constable when, in the execution of his duty, such person shall be guilty of an offence against this act, and shall, under the discretion of the court, either pay a penalty not exceeding £20, or, in default of payment, of imprisonment, with, or without hard labour, for any term not exceeding six months ; or, in case any such person has been convicted of a similar offence within two years, not exceeding 9 months, with or without hard labour." From this the prisoner would see he had been treading closely upon this dangerous act of parliament. There was nothing previously known against him, and therefore the court would punish him with a mitigated penalty. Fortunately he had not injured the police constable, but at all events he must be made sensible of the importance of the offence of which he had been convicted. The court expenses were 8s., and they allowed to the witnesses 5s. 8d., and he would have to pay a fine of £2 6s. 4d., making £3 altogether ; in default he would be committed to hard labour for six weeks. They would only give him to the rising of the court to pay the fine.	The Luton Times and Advertiser , 25 November 1871, 2

1888	27 September	Stevenage, HRT	in magistrates court	THE FAIR AT HAULTWICK. - At the Stevenage Petty Sessions, on Thursday, George Manning, Joseph Brinkley, Sidney Johnson, Susan Smith, James Draper, and John Fox , travelling hawkers, &c., were charged with obstructing the highway at Haultwick, Little Munden, by pitching certain stalls or stands thereon. - The question raised by this case was whether the fair at Haultwick was for one or two days. The complainant, Police-constable Hyatt, urged that it was only held on one day, while the defendants contended that from time immemorial it had been a two-days' fair. They produced a written statement purporting to be signed by several of the inhabitants setting forth that the fair lasted two days, but as this was not evidence the Magistrates could not act upon it. - Supt. Reynolds said he had made enquiries and found that many years ago vans and stalls used to stop in the village for three or four days, and sometimes for a week. Now complaints were made when the fair people stopped more than one day [sic]. He could find no record as to how long the fair ought to last. - The Magistrates dismissed the cases, the Chairman observing that if the inhabitants of Little Munden wished to abolish the fair or reduce the time in which it is held, they must take the necessary steps to do it.						The Hertfordshire Mercury , 29 September 1888, 5

1890	10 March	Shenley, HRT	buried	aged 45, Colney Heath  For the last two or three weeks some gipsies have been living in their vans at Colney Heath, and one of them named James Draper died last week from inflammation of the lungs. As a relative of the deceased had been interred in Shenley churchyard, it was decided by the friends to bury him there likewise, and the funeral took place on Monday. In spite of the rain which fell heavily, a considerable number of villagers, prompted by curiosity, assembled to witness the event. Inspectors Nutt and Gurling with several police constables were also present. Those, however, who expected to see some striking peculiarity in the proceedings were disappointed, for the funeral was conducted on ordinary lines. The funeral cortège, consisting of a hearse and mourning coach, having arrived at the church gate, and the procession formed, the Rev. H. J. Newcome reading the opening sentences of the Burial Service, led the way into the church, and the service proceeded in the usual manner. Seventeen gipsies of both sexes, and of all ages, followed the coffin ; they were all clad in decent mourning, and behaved with due decorum. One or two seemed deeply affected. The coffin had a few floral wreaths on it, and inside were deposited a walking stick and small mirror. Two of the gipsies carried artificial flowers which they placed on the grave. Mr. Goodchild, of St. Albans, was the undertaker.	Original register (SAF) + The Hertfordshire Advertiser , 15 March 1890, 7

1865	3 January	Bedford, BDF	at the Assizes	Edward Draper, 19, gipsy, and Oliver Smith, alias Shaw, 18, hawker, were charged with assaulting / James Randall, and stealing 18s. 6d., purse, and handkerchief, at Luton, on the 17th October 1864. Smith pleaded guilty. Mr. Abdy conducted the prosecution ; and Mr. Douglas Brown defended. James Randall, of Streatley, labourer, said : About half past nine on the night of the 17th October I was at the Horse and Jockey ; I saw Draper there ; he laid hold of me and with Smith they pushed me into a corner ; I felt one of their hands in my pocket ; Smith put his hand in my pocket. I called to Thomas Clarke, who was with me, to help me ; I had in my pocket a double purse, containing 18s. 6d., consisting of half a sovereign, and a two shilling piece, the rest being silver. I put my hand in my pocket as soon as I was at liberty, and missed my money and purse. Smith went out and Clarke followed him ; Draper remained behind, knocked me down, and then went off directly. Cross-examined : There were six in the room altogether. I had a little beer, not much. The handkerchief I lost was found with Smith. Thomas Clarke was called and he corroborated what the prosecutor had stated. Police-constable Lambert : On the 17th October, about eleven at night, I searched Draper, and found on him 15s. 4d. in silver and copper - two florins, ten shilling piece, other silver, and copper. I was present when Smith was searched. No money was found on him, but he had the prosecutor's handkerchief. Zephaniah Staniford, was at the Black Swan at ten o'clock on the 17th October ; Draper came in, called for some beer, and threw down a half sovereign and asked for change. Smith came in with Draper. Mr. Douglas Browne, in a forcible address, contended that there was no evidence to connect Draper with the theft of the money. An assault was committed, no doubt ; for when Draper was charged with the theft he became angry, showing that he had no knowledge of Smith taking the money. Smith, as soon as the prosecutor called out about his money, went off directly thus showing his guilt. The learned counsel further suggested that the mere fact of Draper changing half-a-sovereign the same evening ought not to condemn him in the minds of the jury. The Chairman having summed up,  The Jury found Draper guilty. Smith pleaded guilty to a previous conviction for felony at Hertford. The Court sentenced Smith to 12 months' imprisonment with hard labour ; and Draper to 9 months'. Smith on leaving the dock, speaking to two women of the gipsy tribe in the court said, "Oh, Good-bye."	The Bedfordshire Mercury , 5 January 1865, 4-5

1870	17 April	Hitchin, HRT	in magistrates court	Edward Draper, a gipsy, was charged with assaulting P.C. Dunn under the following circumstances. On the 22nd March, as P.C. Dunn was going up a lane in Codicote parish, he saw a fire burning in the middle of the lane and a tent near; the defendant was there and another person; there was a lot of green wood burning on the fire, and he noticed the hedges in the lane had been broken; he went and pulled some of the wood off the fire, to pattern it with the hedge; defendant came and pulled the wood, which had been partly burned, through his hand, and threatened to split his b--- head, and followed him some distance down the lane; defendant would have struck him if he had not stepped back. - Defendant said he did not break the hedge; and he bought the wood he was burning. - The Chairman said they must protect the farmers' property; independently of the charge of assault, he had rendered himself liable to a penalty for camping in a lane; they would take no notice of that, and he would be fined 10s, or seven days. - The money was paid.	The Hertfordshire Express , 30 April 1870, 3

1868	19 October	Hertford, HRT	at the Assizes	Elias Draper, aged 17, of Cambridge, described as "a gipsy who travels with a van," was charged with stealing a boat cover of the value of 3l., the property of the Right Hon. Lord Lytton, at Knebworth. He was also charged with feloniously receiving the property. It appeared from the evidence that on the 7th of August, the cover was safe in a boat, in Lord Lytton's boat-house, and that it was missed on the next morning. On Tuesday the 18th of August, the prisoner offered the cover in pledge to a pawnbroker at Hitchin ; but the pawnbroker having received information of the theft, sent for a police constable, and upon one making his appearance, the prisoner ran away. The constable pursued and came up with him at the back of Tilehouse-street Chapel. Upon being charged with the robbery the prisoner said he had bought the cover of a man for 5s. The cover was produced and identified by James Gilbert, a carpenter, in the employ of Lord Lytton. The Jury found the prisoner guilty of receiving, and he was sentenced to three months' imprisonment with hard labour. Mr. Amos appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. Codd for the defence.		The Hertford Mercury and Reformer , 24 October 1868, 4

1879	25 September	Cambridge, CAM	in magistrates court	On Thursday, the 18th instant, a gipsy woman, rejoicing in the unfeminine name of Leviathan Thorp (the wife of a travelling gipsy) called at the residence of Mrs. James, of Market-street, having buttons to sell. Two servant girls "answered" the door-bell, and some small articles being purchased, Leviathan asked Hannah Chapman, who, although only "sweet seventeen," holds the dignified position of cook, whether she would like to have her fortune told : Hannah thought she should, and gave her fellow servant (about the same age) "the straight tip" to leave her while Leviathan unveiled the future, for her special edification. The cook, being now at the mercy of Leviathan, the usual performance, "in that case made and provided" proceeded. Little Cookey was requested to produce a piece of gold, which she did, in the shape of a sovereign, with which she crossed the Leviathan's delicate hand : then a pack of cards was produced, representing a small planetary system, on which the gold was placed. Then followed the usual hocus-pocus business. The sovereign was placed in a piece of paper ; then, apparently another piece ; and finally in a third piece. Then a parcel resembling the paper, with a coin in it, was returned to the girl ; but in this legerdemain the cook's goose was cooked. The Leviathan solemnly exclaimed "put the parcel under your pillow, and you will dream of a handsome young man ; he will be your husband ; but if you examine the parcel before the end of the week the charm will be broken. Swear that you will not open the paper till seven days have expired." Then the Leviathan administered the following oath ; "I swear, so help me God, that I will not open the parcel for a week." After this, she was told that after the expiration of seven days she would find £1 10s. instead of a sovereign. Thereupon the Leviathan took her departure. Now, when Hannah Chapman informed her fellow servant, Sarah Adams, of the result of the interview, she was incredulous ; and strongly urged her to open the mysterious parcel, and Hannah did so, and lo and behold ! her golden sovereign had been metamorphosed into a paltry farthing. Hannah rushed to the Police Office, and gave information of what had transpired. Within a couple of hours, Sergeant Dockerill secured Leviathan Thorp, and Hannah's sovereign was found wrapped in a piece of paper. The prisoner was taken before James Cropley, Esq., and remanded till	The Cambridge Independent Press , 27 September 1879, 7

				Thursday, the 25th instant, bail being taken for appearance, the amount £30, being deposited in the hands of Mr. Evans, clerk to the magistrates. On Thursday there was a crowded room to hear the case. The depositions being read, Mr. Naylor, who appeared for the prisoner, advised her to plead guilty. He stated that she had four children, and in a few months another little Leviathan might be expected. This was the first charge that had ever been brought against her, and he expressed the hope that the Bench would deal leniently with her, thereby showing a manly compassion upon her, in her situation ; no injury had been done ; the girl had got her sovereign back again ; and if a certain amount of wickedness had been shown on the one hand; at any rate great folly had been displayed on the other. The Bench considered a long time as to whether to commit the prisoner for trial, or to deal with the case summarily ; eventually it was decided to give her 6 month's hard labour.
