The Cambridge Independent Press, 1 June 1844, 3
1845	28 June	Chatteris, CAM	in magistrates court	Samuel Green, Chatteris, travelling confectioner fiddler [sic], and (as he said) "an unworthy member of a teetota [sic] temperance society," was locked up for being very drunk and disorderly in the streets. Samuel Green, has been at various times before [sic], convicted of the same offence : fining seems to be of no use - sureties are out of the question; the worthy magistrate, therefore, allowed the "foolish old man" to depart on pledging his word not to offend again. On the way to the station the female defendant attempted a rescue, and in doing so struck the officers. She was also locked up. 				was called, and identified the spoons produced as his property. Mr. John Norris, the chief-constable of Coventry, having deposed to the prisoners' apprehension and the discovery of the stolen property, the girl Elizabeth Cavell was called, and swore positively to the prisoner Emma Green as the woman who had the spoons of her. She stated that the prisoner asked her if she had any silver to "cross her hands with," and that she lent her the plate and a gold trinket of her own for that purpose, the prisoner promising to bring them back in a couple of days. The Police asked for a remand, which was granted till Monday next.

1870	21 March	Lawford's Gate, Bristol, GLS	in magistrates court	Henry Green and Emma Green, the two gipsies who were last week remanded on a charge of stealing four silver spoons from the residence of the Rev. G. Bence, vicar of Bishopston, in March, 1869, were again brought up. The spoons were obtained from the servant of the rev. prosecutor by the female prisoner, under the pretence of "ruling her planet." She promised to bring them back on the following Monday, but she disappeared, and nothing was seen or heard of the articles till a week or two ago, when the prisoners were apprehended in Coventry on suspicion of having stolen various articles, among them being the spoons, which were subsequently identified as those obtained under the stated circumstances. The female prisoner was recognised as the gipsy who borrowed the spoons. The prisoners were now defended by Mr. Tucker, who, after the evidence for the prosecution had been heard, addressed the bench at some length on their behalf ; but the magistrates committed them both for trial at the Gloucestershire quarter session. The male prisoner wrung his hands despairingly as he left the court.	The Bristol Mercury , 26 March 1870, 6
1870	24 March	probably Gloucester, GLS	at the Sessions	One of the cases heard at the Gloucestershire Quarter Sessions, on Thursday, was very singular in its circumstances. Emma Green was sentenced to six months' imprisonment for stealing four silver spoons and a silver fork, value 20s., from the Rev. G. W. Bence, at Horfield ; and Henry Green to three months for receiving them. The two are gipsies. Some time ago the woman called at Mr. Bence's house during the absence of the family, and offered the girl to rule her planets, telling her that she would be married to a rich man, but that accurate particulars could not be given without having silver spoons and forks. The girl was induced to give up some silver spoons and forks belonging to her master, on condition that they would be returned on the next Monday, which, of course, in that sense never came. Afterwards she was summarily convicted for the theft of the articles, and sentenced to six weeks' imprisonment. She told the story as to the gipsy, and eventually a description of the property was inserted in the Police Gazette . Recently, a policeman saw a gipsy woman wrapping up something while in the shop of a silversmith, at Coventry, and persisting in seeing what she had, found upon her silver spoons, which he saw answered the description in the Gazette . He seized them, and just then the man came up, and declared the spoons belonged to his wife's grandmother. "Then," said the officer, "you know something of them." The man said of course he did ; whereupon the officer arrested him and his wife. He afterwards found the missing fork at Kenilworth. The girl repeated her story on the trial, and the Court awarded the policeman 40s. for the sharpness he had shown in the case.	The Birmingham Daily Post , 26 March 1870, 7

The event created an immense amount of excitement in this village, and drew together a great number of people from Thame and the surrounding parishes to witness the ceremony, which took place in the Parish Church. It appears that over 20 years ago the father of the bride, who is a man of somewhat high standing amongst his race of people, and well-known as “Johnny Smith,” was married at Long Crendon Church, by the Rev. T. Hayton, and it is said that, by his expressed wish, the ceremony of Monday was also celebrated in the same Church, and the service also read by the Rev. T. Hayton. The bride, Lemantina Smith, does not change her name, as her husband is also one of the numerous Smith family, excepting to distinguish her from others, when she may be called after her husband, as Mrs. Nathan Smith. The ceremony took place at eleven o'clock, by which time there were assembled a great number of friends of the bride and bridegroom, many of whom had come long distances to be present at the marriage. The proceedings were of a very orderly character throughout, the Churchwardens, Messrs. W. Crook and S. Cook, being present, and doing all in their power for the comfort and convenience of the assembly. As the party left the Church the bells rang out a merry peal, and the parties more immediately concerned adjourned to the Angel Inn, where the bride’s father presented her with her wedding dowry, which was said to be a pint of sovereigns, and where also a substantial dinner was provided for the wedding party and their guests.
