1847	5 January	Leicester, LEI	Tobias at the Sessions	Tobias Clayton , aged 50, was charged with stealing seven joints of cow's flesh, on the 7th of December last, at Peckleton, the property of the Rev. J. M. Cooper. The prisoner pleaded guilty to the charge, also to having been previously convicted of felony. Ann Bennett was charged with being accessory [sic] after the fact, to a felony committed by the said Tobias Clayton, and pleaded not guilty. - Wm. Slater Barsby stated that he was constable of Peckleton, and also in the employ of the Rev. J. M. Cooper. On the 7th of December, there were several joints of cow flesh hanging up in the stable-yard, for the purpose of feeding the dogs with. On the following morning a large portion of it was missing. In consequence of information given to him, he proceeded with two other	The Leicester Journal , 8 January 1847, 4

				persons to Huncote Lane, where he saw a camp, in which were the two prisoners. They searched the camp, and found part of the cow flesh boiled, and part unboiled. On the following day they went to Whitwick, to Ann Bennett's house, where they found the remainder of the flesh, salted down, and the bones all broken. Another witness proved that the female prisoner came to him at the time he slaughtered the meat, and asked him to give her some of it, but he refused. Policeman Deville corroborated the testimony of the witness, Barsby, and added that the prisoner told him that Clayton's son took the meat to her house unknown to her, and had since absconded. The jury returned a verdict of Not Guilty .

1853	early March	Leicester, LEI		It will be seen by our report of the proceedings on Tuesday that the Guardians resolved to set apart a ward for the reception of the afflicted, and, it is to be hoped, this timely and judicious step may prevent the fearful disease spreading much further. From enquiries we have since made, we learn the following particulars of the families attacked in Keen's yard. They are all related to each other, and form a total of twenty-eight persons, namely, three men, eight women, and seventeen children. To begin with Ann Bennett; she and her two children, who have been deserted by the head of the family, are all attacked. Margaret Bennett and her child (also deserted) are ill - the woman very ill. Thomas Hopkin, his wife, and six children come next, and of them, the man is very sick, and three of the children were attacked on Tuesday. Ann Holland (a widow) and one of her three children were attacked. All the above are receiving parochial relief. Then there were found Tobias Clayton, his wife and three children, two grown-up daughters, and a son, and Reuben Bennett, and his wife, who were not laid up when the report was made; but it was feared they would suffer. After the Guardians had decided upon the course to be taken in the above cases, the Chronicle reporter called the attention to the Board to a serious fever that had broken out in St. George's-row, St. George's-street, and, upon enquiry being made, it appeared that it was the family of Bryson, the engineer at the Union house. It was stated that both his children died within a few hours after being attacked; it is said they were seized about eleven o'clock on Sunday! The cases are reported to be "Scarlet Fever," and the cause is attributed to a privy at the end of the row. This place is used by the occupants of no less than seven houses, each containing families, and is situate near the boundary wall of St. George's churchyard, and in front of the row of houses. In addition to that situation being improper in a sanitary point of view, it is also very objectionably placed with regard to decency; and we trust that the Officer of Health will at once direct his attention to the locality, if he has not done so before this appears in print. Not a hundred yards from the spot where the above houses are situated are two slaughter-houses in Church-street, from which the most offensive odours proceed, and great injury will doubtless accrue, if they remain in their present state when the summer time sets in. It is not at all improbable that these slaughter-houses, as well as the privy referred to, may have had something to do with the breaking out of fever in such a virulent form. We ought to state that the guardians, upon hearing the statement made by our reporter, at once agreed that the case required immediate attention. The Master stated that Bryson himself was very ill, and he feared he would be laid up. The Guardians agreed to recommend Bryson to remain in the Union house altogether for a few days, bringing his wife with him, and shutting the house in St. George's-row. The Master was ordered to see the surgeon upon the subject, and if thought advisable by him, to set apart a room for the use of Bryson and his wife. To show what sort of sanitary reformers the people would be, if left to themselves, we may mention that when the funeral of the two children took place, on Wednesday afternoon, a large quantity of children, many of them in the arms of their parents, collected round the house, and remained there until the corpses had been removed into the hearse. - Since writing the above we learn that the gipsies in Keene's-yard positively refuse to be removed to the Union-house, although a comfortable room has been provided for them. Unfortunately no power exists to remove them against their will, and thus they may, in consequence of their own stubbornness, remain where they are, probably spreading the infection, and assuredly lessening the chances of their own recovery...	The Leicester Chronicle , 12 March 1853, 3

Deakins with unlawfully making a fire within fifty yards of the centre of the highway, between Frolesworth and Sapcote, on July 30. P.C. Harsby said, that on the day in question he saw the defendants near Mr. Nurse's barn. They had a fire on the side of the road where they were sitting. There was a pan over the fire, in which something was being cooked. The fire was in the parish of Sapcote, and was not twenty feet from the centre of the highway. - Committed for three months.	The Leicester Mercury , 11 August 1855, 3

The prisoners were amongst the number, and they refusing to move their position when requested to do so on the Saturday, were taken into custody on Sunday afternoon and brought to the police-station at Lutterworth. They were each fined 2s. 6d. and 4s. 6d. costs. Deakins with encamping and making fires in a lane within twenty feet of the centre of the highway in the parish of Bittesby, and also with wandering abroad without having any visible means of subsistence or any place of abode ; and with not giving a good account of themselves, on Sunday, the 20th inst. From the evidence of Supt. Deakins and others, it appeared that the police were sent for on Sunday, when they found in the old Watling-street-road more than thirty children, twenty women and about twelve men, besides horses, asses, carts, camps, fires, &c., &c. The prisoners were amongst the number, and they refusing to move their position when requested to do so on the Saturday, were taken into custody on Sunday afternoon and brought to the police-station at Lutterworth. They were each fined 2s. 6d. and 4s. 6d. costs. Many complaints having been made about gypsies, the police have received orders to bring all such offenders to justice.	The Leicestershire Mercury , 26 April 1851, 3
