1886	31 August	Eddisbury, CHS	in magistrates court	O'Connor Boswell, Cornelius Lovell, and Joseph Hughes, gipsies, were charged with allowing thirteen horses to stray on the highway at Frodsham on the 14th August. - P.C.'s Mollineaux and Venabes proved the case, and said the defendants vans were also obstructing the road at the same time. - The defence was that the horses were only left on the road while defendants were arranging with a neighbouring farmer for the use of a field for their camp. - Defendants were fined 2s 6d for each horse, and ordered to pay 4s costs each.	The Cheshire Observer , 4 September 1886, 6

HUGHES, Sidney

1899	12 March	Willesden, MDX	charged with obstructing the police in pursuit of their duty	AN interesting sequel to the part recently played by the Willesden police as cowboys was heard at Harlesden Police Court. Five gipsies, Riley Beldam, fifty ; Thomas Beldam, twenty-one ; Arthur Fletcher, twenty-two ; Sidney Hughes, twenty-two ; and Henry Davis, twenty-six, were charged with resisting Police-sergeant, 46 X, in the execution of his duty. Mr. Pierron, solicitor, defended. Several gipsies who have been a source of annoyance to the authorities of Willesden cannot be induced to leave a large encampment at Kensal Rise, near the Sports Ground. The evidence showed that they had a number of horses which they turned into anyone's fields to graze. On Saturday evening the owner of one field turned fourteen of their horses out on the highway, where some policemen, who had been prepared for what would happen, secured them with lassoes and halters, and took them to some stabling at the rear of a public-house in Harrow Road, which was used as a pound. During the night an entry was forced and the horses removed. At the gipsy encampment fourteen of the horses in the camp were identified. Beldom immediately said something in the Romany language, and the prisoners jumped up, flew onto the backs of horses, formed a circle, narrowing it until they had possession of the fourteen horses. Beldom obstructed the police all he could, and the other four attempted to ride over them. An exciting scene ensued, during which Mr. Pinkham, a member of the bench, arrived. Mr. Bird fined the prisoners 40s and costs each; or twenty-one days.	The Illustrated Police News , 18 March 1899, 11
