				John Baldwin, landlord of the Upper Bilson Inn, Cinderford, was summoned for permitting drunkenness and for supplying drink to drunken persons on the 6th inst. Mark Smith, tinman, of Neson Green, was summoned for drunkenness. - These cases arose out of the sad death of Josiah Smith, pedlar, Mark Smith's brother. - Hartley Russell, a lad, said that at 8.30 p.m. on the night in question he saw Mark Smith and his brother near the Bilson Inn. They were arm-in-arm and staggering about as though they were drunk. In the case against the landlord Mr. T. Whatley was for the defendant, against whom only the charge of supplying drink to a drunken person was taken. Mr. Whatley stated that his client on his recommendation would plead guilty. It was a deplorable thing that a man had lost his life under the circumstances mentioned at the inquest, but his client bore a very excellent character, and he thought a small fine would meet the case. - The Chairman said it was a lamentable case, because it had had disastrous consequences. Defendant must pay a fine of £1, and costs. The Chairman said Smith was an old man, upon whom he hoped the loss of his brother, under such circumstances, would have a good effect. He must pay a fine of 5s., and costs.	The Gloucester Citizen, 18 December 1897, 4

LOVERIDGE, Esther

c1845		not known, STS	birth	daughter of Elisha & Diana
1851	17 January	Worcester, WOR	father killed John Clark	On Friday week, at a beer-house near the theatre, Worcester, Elisha Loveridge, a gipsy, and a man named John Clark, a glass-cutter, with others, were playing at a game called "railway bell," when some words ensued about some money which Loveridge said Clark had lost. On asking Clark for the money, the latter remarked that he had not got it to give him, upon which Loveridge rejoined, "If you don't pay, I'll knock your neck out," and immediately struck him a violent blow with his fist on the neck, which felled him to the floor. The poor man was quickly discovered to be severely injured. Medical aid was sent for, but he expired in a few minutes. Loveridge escaped.	The Bristol Mercury , 25 January 1851, 4

LOVERIDGE, William

c1846			birth
1867	12 October	Marlborough, WIL	in magistrates court	William Loveridge was charged with maliciously injuring a window in the dwelling-house of Mark Pressy, a shepherd, at North Severnake. The prisoner, evidently one of the fraternity who haunt the neighbourhood at the approach of Marlborough "mop," appears to have been drunk, and went up to the cottage in the evening and demanded accommodation. This was denied to him, and complainant's wife refused to open the door. He said if she would not open the door he would open the window, and smashed a pane. The woman states that she made him believe her husband was at home by calling for him, when the prisoner made off. She followed him into Marlborough, and gave him into custody. Fined 10s., including damages and costs.	The Marlborough Times , 19 October 1867, 8

1868	1 October	Claydon, OXF	charged with assault		The Banbury Beacon , 9 October 1868, 4
1868	5 October	Banbury, OXF	in magistrates court	Joseph Smith, Samuel Smith, Joseph W. Paxton, Martha Smith, Louisa Smith, and Ann Loveridge, were charged with having assaulted the parish constable, at Claydon in the execution of his duty, on the 1st of October. It appears that the parish constable was called to quell a disturbance in a public house, but found them quiet. A quart of beer was ordered, but as none of them would pay for it, he ordered the landlady to take it away, on which a general mellee ensued. - The charge against Joseph and Martha Smith was dismissed, and also that against Ann Loveridge; but the others were remanded to the Petty Sessions and bail refused.	The Banbury Beacon , 9 October 1868, 4
